

Colleagues,

You are cordially invited to a seminar on research library service models for support of research evaluation and assessment.

We have secured three speakers from academic libraries in USA, UK and Australia who have developed and run such services in their organizations. They will discuss drivers for development, process of setting up the service and its impact on both the library and the institution. We will also hear from a faculty colleague who will talk about his needs for research assessment as both a senior researcher and university manager.
