1988
October 17, 1988

Dear Colleague:

The report on the survey of Counseling Center Directors by the Urban Counseling Task Force is enclosed. The usual format is followed:

1. Survey highlights

2. Summary of data broken down by urban and non-urban and large and small institutions

3. A directory alphabetized by director and by institution

I hope you find the survey data helpful and encourage you to return the enclosed evaluation form.

Sincerely,

Robert P. Gallagher, Director
University Counseling and Student Development Center

P.S. Some corrections have been made since this was distributed at the UACCCD Conference.

II. Summary Data .......................... 3

III. Participants .......................... 12

IV. Directory of Participating Schools .... 14
Considering the combined urban/non-urban data it was noted that:

- Fewer centers (4%) report charging students for counseling this past year, but an increasing number are charging faculty (10%), alumni (18%), and community people (20%). (Item 1)

- Centers collecting third party payments increased from 11% to 15% over the past year. (Item 2)

- 80 centers (43%) run a major testing program on campus and more than a third of these use these fees to support other center programs. (Items 3 & 4)

- 39 centers (21%) are supported by a mandatory fee and, at 30 of these centers, the fee covers 100% of the operating budget. (Items 5 & 6)

- 46 centers (mostly large and urban) have money budgeted for an administrative assistant and 15 centers have a research assistant on staff. (Items 8 & 9)

- 48 centers gained a professional staff position last year while 4 centers lost a position. Similar gains over losses were noted for other positions, especially interns where there was a 6 to 1 gain versus loss ratio. (Items 10 & 11)

- 84% of all counseling centers now have micro-computers. Generally these are for central office use, but some counselors in 63 centers (38%) have a personal computer in their offices, and all counselors in 13 centers (7%) have personal computers. (Items 12 & 13)

- 51% of the surveyed centers feel they have adequate psychiatric back-up; 29% feel that this back-up is not adequate, and 20% function with no psychiatric back-up. (Item 14)

- Of the 35 centers that actually have psychiatrists on staff most utilize them for consultation, evaluation, and drug therapy. Only 8 centers have psychiatrists doing psychotherapy. At most centers psychiatrists will only carry students on meds if they are being seen at the center for therapy. Several centers, however, will provide medication for students being seen for therapy elsewhere, and a few will medicate students not being seen in psychotherapy. The average consultation fee for psychiatrists is $75.00 per hour. (Items 15 & 16)

- 59% of the directors report that psychologists who provide clinical supervision at their centers have had formal training in how to provide supervision but only 42% of the directors report having had such training. 96% of the directors believe that psychologists need more training in this area. (Items 17 & 19)

- 52 centers (28%) have either merged with or taken responsibility for wellness programs on campus. 38% have undergone other organizational changes in the past year and almost all are satisfied with these changes. (Items 20 - 22)

- 66% of direct service time in counseling centers is limited to personal counseling, 20% to career counseling, and 13% to academic counseling. (Item 23)

- When both personal and career counseling get done in a center, these are considered unique staff specialities in only 8% of the centers. In 61% of the centers all counselors do both personal and career counseling, and in 30% of the centers at least some counselors do both. (Item 24)

- At 124 schools (67%) there is an identifiable career development coordinator on campus; 26% of these report to the Counseling Center Director, 10% to the Placement Director, 39% to the Chief Student Personnel Officer, and 24% to some other administrator. (Items 25 & 26)

- 55% of Counseling Center Directors report to the Chief Student Personnel Officer, 10% to the Assistant Chief Personnel Officer, 3% to an Academic Dean, 7% to a Student Health Director, and 25% to some other administrator. 81% of the directors are satisfied with their present reporting arrangement. Those who are not, tend to be those who do not have a direct line to a senior administrative person. (Item 27 & 28)

- Most directors (86%) have no difficulty with supervisors who want more information on clients than can be ethically provided. 26 centers (14%) however, have significant concerns in this area and would like more help from professional associations in dealing with this problem. (Item 29)

- Retention issues continue to be of concern on most campuses. More than half the centers feel that their contributions in this area are not recognized or are underestimated. A few suggestions for helping with this problem are offered. (Items 30 & 31)
- 28% of the respondents believe that the higher level administration on their campuses know nothing or very little about the Counseling Center. Comments on how to gain more recognition are provided. (Item 32)

- 82% are satisfied with the number of referrals they get from faculty. About 76% of centers also felt that they would get help from influential faculty on campus if there was a threat to the existence of the Counseling Center. Comments on how to build faculty support are provided. (Items 33 & 34)

- 49% of centers have an internship program. Only 10% are APA approved and 9% are seeking such approval. The rest will not seek approval because: (1) their program is too small (2) the expense (3) or unhappiness with APIC and APA. (Item 35)

- Only 2% of centers keep no case records in their centers (5% reported no record keeping system in 1984); in 21% of the centers counselors keep their own records, with no central files. The remainder keep case notes, case summaries or both. Only 26% of centers report having any written guidelines on what to include in case notes. (Items 40 & 41)

- 148 centers (80%) had to hospitalize a student for psychological reasons this past year (average 7 hospitalizations per school), 117 centers (63%) had to give warning about a potentially suicidal student (average 4 per school), and 37 centers (20%) gave Tarasaff type warnings. (Average 1 to 2 warnings per center with one center giving 44 such warnings). (Items 42-44)

- 28 centers had their records subpoenaed in the past year, and 4 centers had suits filed against them; two suits were settled in favor of the center, one was settled out of court, and one is not yet decided. (Items 45-48)

- 91 centers (10%) had to terminate a counselor or intern last year for unethical practices. (Up from 4% the previous year). (Item 43)

- 56% of the centers report that they seem to be spending more time each year with students in severe psychological distress and only 2% state that these cases seem to be declining. (Item 53)

- 12% of the centers report more cases of anorexia last year, and 21% report an increase in bulimia cases. Generally, however, the incidence of these cases seems to be leveling off. (Items 54 & 55)

- 163 centers (88%) are reporting an increase in the numbers of clients reporting sexual abuse as a child. (Item 56)

- 122 centers (66%) report working with at least one "fatal attraction" type case last year. See comments. (Item 57)

- Directors report that the average number of sessions per client 5 years ago was about 4.5; it has climbed to about 6 in the past year. This may reflect an increase in severity of client problems. (Items 59 & 60)

- 113 centers (61%) hired a counselor in the past year. Mean salary data is provided. (Items 61 & 62)

- 45 Directors (24%) report that they were faced with difficult ethical or legal issues in the past year. Examples are provided. (Item 63)

- Examples of innovative consultation/outreach projects and staff development programs are also summarized. (Items 64 & 65)

COMMENTS

14 centers did not indicate whether urban/non-urban, large or small

those that charge students tend to do so after 5-10 sessions.

Mean Fees: students $15.00, faculty $35.00, alumni $42.00, community $50.00.

Some creative centers charge non-students $1.00 for every $1,000 of income.

32 centers report that fees from this support other center programs. Support ranges from 1% to 40% of the budget

When there is a mandatory fee it covers 100% of the budget in 75% of the cases

For the 6th year in a row counseling centers have gained more positions than they have lost in every category

These percentages which gained so rapidly over the last 3 years have begun to level off
